Harold Robert STEVENS

Harold is the brother of the father of George Stevens, ie George's uncle.

Harold was born 2 September 1902 at Point Lonsdale Victoria. He died 10 March 1954 in Brisbane Queensland. Harold married Loveday Werri

Little is known of Harold's life. His only daughter Betty Bryant cannot be contacted - possibly deceased as she was born at Geelong 19/3/27. Her husband Bob was born 10/12/25. They had an adopted son, Roger Malcolm Bryant, and he can't be traced.

Old photos show Harold as a young man in the uniform of a R.A.N. rating. No details about this are known.

During WW2, Harold was in the AIF. The only photograph of him in the army is a group photo, on the back of which is written "S.M.E. (TD) Liverpool No 4 Section Course 56 Aug 4-28". to Nov 28

A letter to "Reveille" in October 1999 brought the following information from several respondents:

SME was School of Mechanical Engineering. TD was Training Division. The year was believed to be 1942. The course was for promotion to Lieutenant (To the best of our knowledge, Harold did not receive a commission). The location was Moorebank. The colour patch "rectangular red to the left, blue to the right long diagonal was that of Royal Australian Artillery, 6th Division.
